Changing the Rules of the Game

*Populism, Democracy,
Autocracy and the Varieties of Political Reality*

Speaker: Timothy Devinney

Populism has arisen again, but little discussion is given to its long history or varied definitions. This talk puts current discussions about populism in a logical and historical structure with the intent of showing that while what we see today may appear unique it is anything but.

Timothy Devinney, with degrees from CMU and Chicago, is the Chair and Professor of International Business at Alliance Manchester Business School. His career includes positions at institutions like the University of Chicago and UCLA and visiting roles globally. He has published over 12 books and 100 articles in major journals and served in editorial capacities for various publications. Dr. Devinney is a fellow of several esteemed academies, including the Academy of Management, the Academy of International Business and the Royal Society of Arts, and is an Alexander von Humboldt Research Awardee. He also holds leadership roles in academic associations and consults for corporations worldwide.
