Summer 2013 in AMSTERDAM & LONDON Criminal Justice May 18-29 CRJS 395/595, 3 credits▲ Prof. Victoria Time

Summer 2006 students

This program is intended to educate students, not only in the classroom but also in the field, about England's and The Netherlands' criminal justice system. This two-week study provides students the opportunity to understand how criminal behavior is defined and addressed within a culture whose practices and approaches are much different from those in the U.S. Additionally, students will attend lectures where they will learn about the development of English and Dutch law and procedure and their resulting influence on the U.S. justice system. Faculty leader Assoc. Prof. Victoria Time is ready to explore and observe with her students the cultural differences in England and The Netherlands, which are crucial in understanding their responses to crime and criminals within these European societies.

In addition to these academic activities, students will have free time to explore the cities' sights. As major European cities, London and Amsterdam today are cosmopolitan centers of culture rivaled by few other cities in the world, with much to be seen and enjoyed during a fortnight's stay!

▲ Students must register and pay for summer term 2013 credit (CRJS 395 or CRJS 595) in order to participate in this program.
