INTERNATIONAL STUDIES ASSOCIATION

Topic: Global South Caucus of International Studies (GSCIS): Writing and Funding Research from the Global South - February 16, 10:00 via Zoom. Register here!

International academic rankings for publications and research institutions are overwhelmingly led by institutions in the global North. Researchers in the global South are underrepresented in many of these international funding institutions and academic journals of notoriety. In their own institutions, these scholars are increasingly expected to publish in top funding institutions and academic journals, which is itself an added hurdle for their career development given the difficulty from their positionality to access these platforms. This panel gathers experts with career experience in the global South and who witnessed these hurdles and who have collected tips and techniques to overcome some of them
