

Clinical Psychology Ph.D.

Action Plan:

Based on assessment data and discussions in faculty meetings, the program decided to add a Research Methods course that will start Spring 2018. This course will be added to strengthen students' ability to design and evaluate research before their comprehensive exams. Faculty were seeing low performance in research at the comp exam. This course will give students additional practice and feedback. Results from this intervention will be seen in 19-20 assessment reports as that is when students who take the initial research methods course will take their comprehensive exam.
