

Medical Technology B.S.

Improvements:

Due to below average certification exams scores in two areas, the program decided to redesign two online courses and one face to face course. A faculty member teaching MEDT 403W (management in the clinical setting) worked with the center for teaching and learning to rebuild this online course according to the Quality Matters Standards. The goal of this revision was to improve the certification exam scores for the Laboratory Operations category. A faculty member teaching MEDT Urinalysis online course for degree completion students worked with the center for teaching and learning to rebuild this online course according to the Quality Matters Standards. Additionally, she redesigned the same course for the on-campus students. The goal of this revision was to improve the scores for the Urinalysis category. With these efforts, the program hopes to see exam scores improve over the next two years.
