(Ayes: Bradley, Ellmer, Montero, Pitts; Nays: None).

Vice Provost Payne asked the Committee Chair, Mr. Bradley if the program modification for the Master of Business Administration (MBA) that was listed as item D on the Regular Agenda, could be tabled until it completed the approvals process. Mr. Bradley agreed.

VI. INFORMATION ITEMS

Brian Payne, Vice Provost for Academic Affairs and Dean of Interdisciplinary Studies, discussed four departmental name changes approved by SCHEV. The Department of Educational Foundations and Department of Leadership will be changed to the Educational Leadership and Workforce Development Department. The Department of Human Movement Sciences will be changed to the Department of Human Movement Studies and Special Education. The School of Kinesiology and Health Science will become the School of Exercise Science and the School of Communication Sciences and Disorders will become the School of Speech-Language Pathology.

Ken Fridley, Vice President for Research, introduced David Flanagan, Assistant Vice President for Research Security and Export Control, and Shannon Robinson, Associate Vice President for Research and Executive Director of the ODU Research Foundation who gave a presentation on the increasing complexity of federal research compliance regulations. Mr. Flanagan began the presentation by explaining that research security is an evolving program within US federal funding agencies, and it is aimed to protect research and researchers from risks of threats to the research enterprise, such as undue foreign influence. Noted was the policy NSPM-33, which requires a certification from research organizations awarded more than $50 million per year in total Federal research funding, that they have implemented a research security program that includes the four elements: cybersecurity, foreign travel security, research security training, and export control training. The Department of Defense is prohibited from providing funding to or making an award of a fundamental research project proposal when a “covered individual” is participating in a Malign Foreign Recruitment Programs (MFTRP) or to a proposing institution that does not have a policy addressing MFTRPs. The CHIPS and Science+ Act requires federal research agencies to develop policies regarding foreign talent recruitment programs. In response, Old Dominion University is currently formalizing a Research Security Program, has expanded conflicts of interest disclosures, and required training for cybersecurity, research security, foreign travel, and export control. The University also modified the travel policy to encourage travel disclosure, updated the export control program to align with best practices and partnered with Virginia Teach, the University of Virginia, and George Mason University on a regional research security group.

Shannon Robinson then provided an executive summary of the strategic challenges the University is facing and the solutions that are being implemented to address these challenges. She noted that Old Dominion University’s research enterprise is growing, and we want to grow research in alignment with the Strategic Plan. The challenges currently faced are the increased regulatory legislation and increased compliance and reporting. The University must monitor regulations and maintain compliance in research while addressing the increased compliance. The Office of Research have implemented new policies and procedures that include process enhancements, process automations, new systems and standards to improve compliance posture, infrastructure enhancements to improve data access between Old Dominion University and the Office of Research and better automation of faculty proposal and form submissions that will enable faculty to track process and streamline communications and compliance measures.

The meeting was adjourned at 12:15 p.m.
